

Alberto Agnelli

1991 - Laurea in Agricultural Sciences, Faculty of Agriculture of the University of Florence.

1992 - Professional Agronomist (Official Public Examination).

1997- NATO - Advance Study Institute: "Soil and global change: Carbon cycle, trace gas exchange, and hydrology". Chateau de Bonas, Toulouse, France.

1998 - University of California, Irvine, at the Earth System Science Department, under the supervision of the Prof. S.E. Trumbore.

1999 - Doctorate (Ph.D.) in Environmental Science, Florence University.

2006 - Lecturer at the Agricultural Faculty of the Turin University (Italy) with the course "Protection of the Mediterranean soils from desertification".

2008-October 2013 - Researcher in Pedology at the Department of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences, Agricultural Faculty, University of Perugia (Italy).

2010 - National qualification as Associate Professor of Pedology

2013 - Associate professor in Pedology at the Department of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences, University of Perugia (Italy).

2016 - National qualification as Full Professor of Pedology